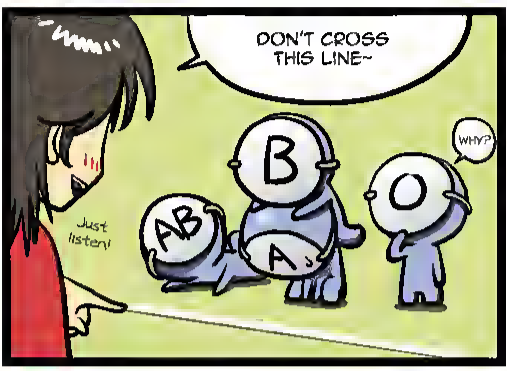
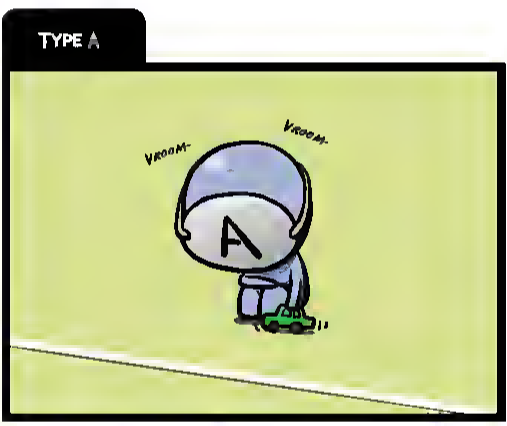
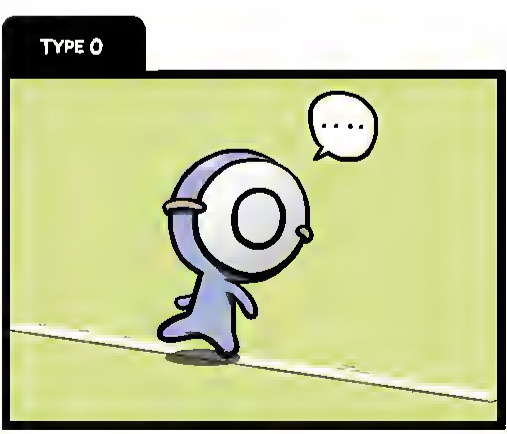
ABO
혈액형에 관한 간단한 고찰
A SIMPLE THINKING ABOUT BLOODTYPE

PRESCHOOL - PART 1

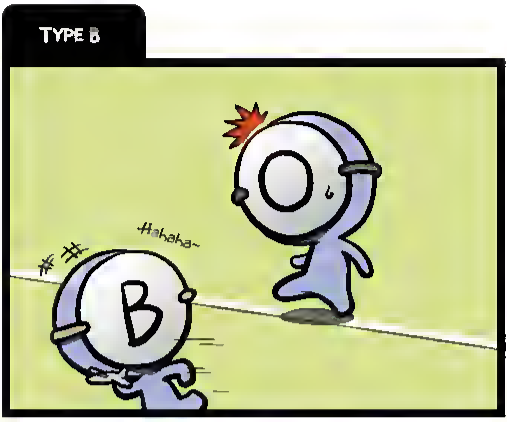




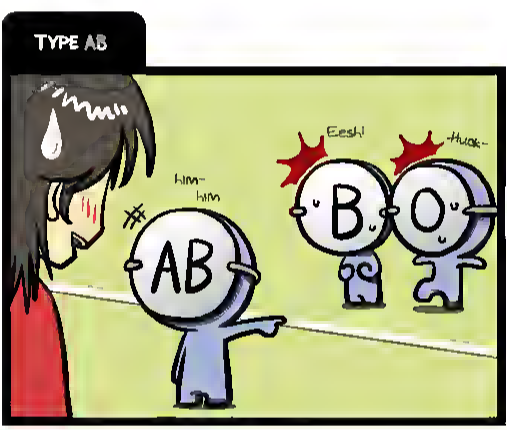
Doesn't cross the line.



Waits until the teacher leaves and then crosses the line.

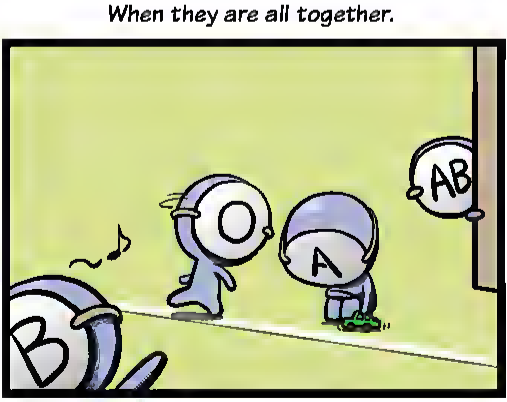


Already crossed the line.



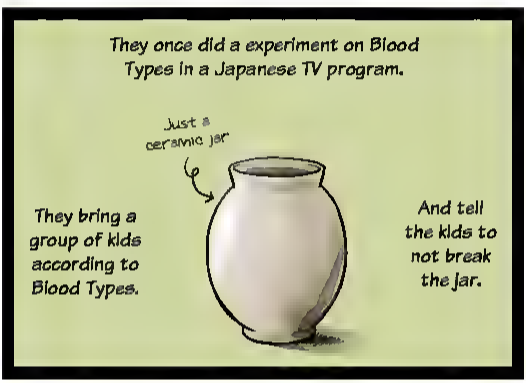
Tells on the ones that crossed the line when the teacher comes back.

When they are all together.

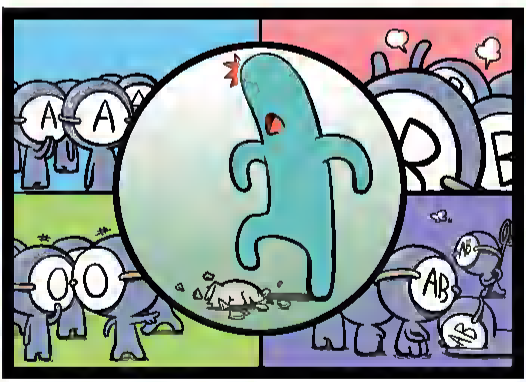


This is what it looks like-

PRESCHOOL - PART 2

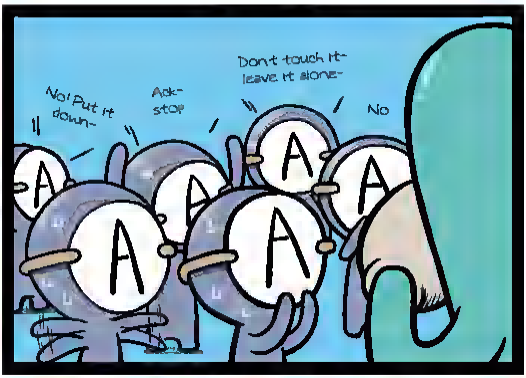


They once did a experiment on Blood Types in a Japanese TV program.
Just a ceramic jar
They bring a group of kids according to Blood Types.
And tell the kids to not break the jar.

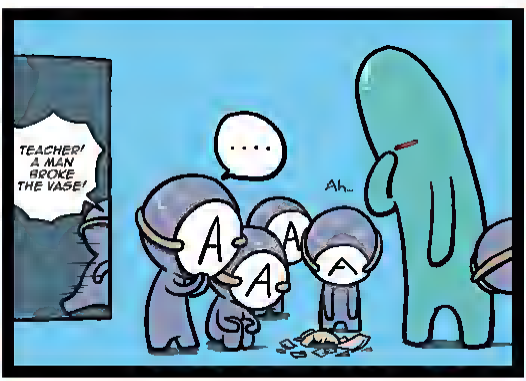


Then they bring in a testing man to break the jar on purpose and examine the kid's reaction according to Blood Types.

TYPE A

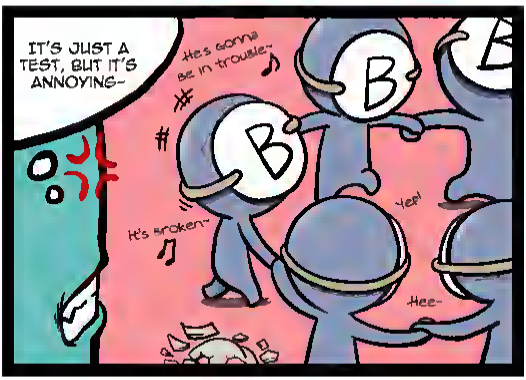


The group of Type A kids gets immediately worried and upset as soon as the man lifts the jar.

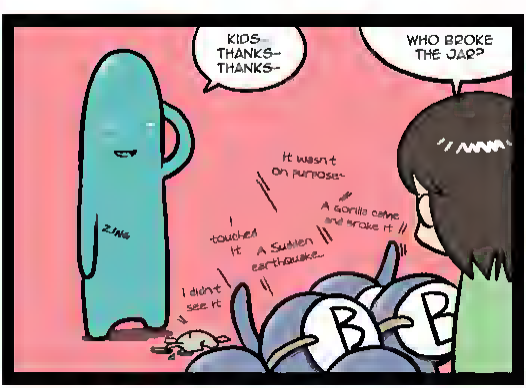


The kids panic once the jar is broken. And a few run off to tell the teacher.

TYPE B

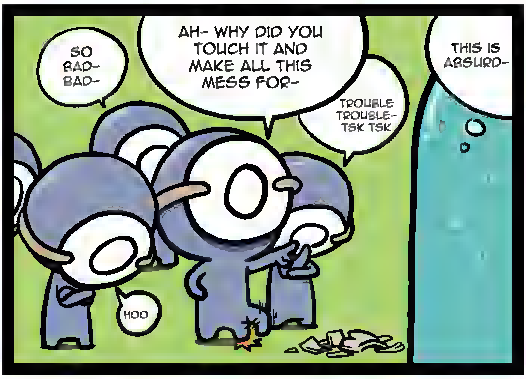


The Type B kids become really excited and starts singing-

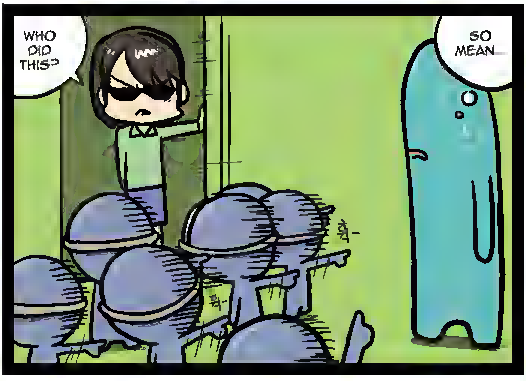


When the teacher comes back and asks, the kids act as one to protect and cover for each other.

TYPE O

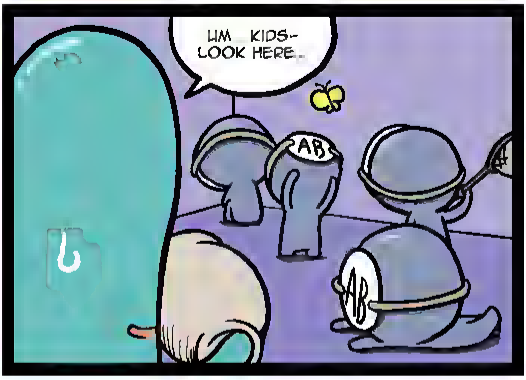


When the jar breaks, Type O kids starts scolding the perpetrator.



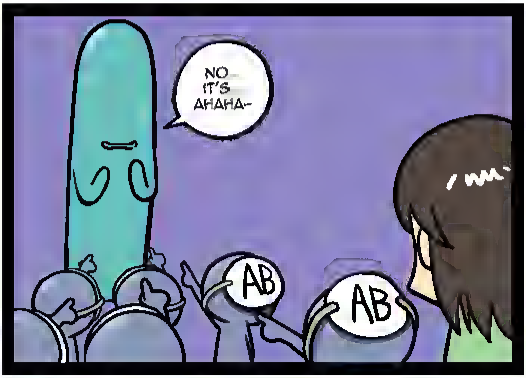
When the teacher asks... they immediately point out who did it.

TYPE AB



Type AB kids are mostly distracted and don't seem to care, so it's hard to keep their attention.

The same even when the jar breaks...



However, they don't hesitate to tell the teacher who did it.

Bento Scans
Translator: Candy Cane
Everything Else: Ravin

A Message to the Readers

Please keep in mind that this webtoon, A Simple Thinking of Blood Types, is written primarily for fun and for the enjoyment of the readers. It is not written from a background of scientific research and does not claim to be a true statement about personality traits of different Blood Types.